UNABLE TO BUY GOODS
AT ADVERTISED PRICES*Vigilance Committee Pays Visit to Stores—Proprietors
"Stall"

For the purpose of additional investigation to see how far "take advertising" is carried on in the District of Columbia, members of the vigilance committee on advertising of the Retail Merchants' Association today accompanied C. E. La Vigne, field representative of the American Fair Trade League, on a tour of certain stores in the business section.

One of the stores visited, dealing in haberdashery, was on in connection with which Mr. La Vigne had found false advertising a day or two ago. Before entering Mr. La Vigne called the attention of R. P. Andrews, president of the Retail Merchants' Association; Charles J. Columbus, secretary of that organization, and Dr. Lyman F. Kober, one of the "citizen" members of the vigilance committee, who accompanied him, to certain signs.

Tries to Make Purchases.
"Now, we'll try to buy some of the things advertised," he said.
Going into the store, a conversation about as follows took place:
Mr. La Vigne—I want to buy one of those $7 and $8 pure silk shirts you advertise for $3.45.

The Proprietor—I haven't got any of those.
La Vigne—Well, let me have some of those thirty-five-cent silk hose you're advertising for 19 cents.
Proprietor—I haven't got any of those, either.
La Vigne—Well, how about these under the sign in the window? I'll take those.
Proprietor—No, I can't let you have those.
It would disturb my window, and the window dresser is not here. Several more articles were called for, but none was forthcoming. The merchant evidently realized that the queries for goods had something to do with the campaign against false advertising which is being waged jointly by the American Fair Trade League and the Retail Merchants' Association here. Finally, showing that he knew he was being "investigated" for false advertising, he refused point-blank to sell anything.

"Stalls" at Every Point.
The proprietor "stalled" at every point. Not one article could be purchased under the signs advertising them. As the party left the merchant promised to remove certain signs from his window which had "been made by mistake," but which he had not removed because it would "disturb his window, and his window dresser was not there." Later today when Mr. La Vigne returned all of the offending signs had been removed.

A "sample shoe store" was next visited. Here not only were various "stalls" met, but gross discourtesies were offered. Mr. La Vigne made no attempt to conceal his object. A pair of shoes bearing an $8 sign in the window and "reduced" to a low price was finally purchased.
The tour was an object lesson. The moral that stood out seemed to be "be wary of great bargains"; also of "up-by-night" merchants.
